Requirement	New heavy-duty 4WD Utility Terrain Vehicle with enclosed HVAC cab, cargo capability and ancillary equipment
Tender Reference	[Insert eTenders/CFT Reference]

1. Background and Context

The National Parks and Wildlife Service (NPWS) requires a robust utility terrain vehicle for operational use in National Park and conservation environments. The vehicle will support staff undertaking land management, conservation, maintenance, monitoring, transport of personnel, tools and materials, and other field-based duties.

The operating environment may include steep, rough, wet, muddy, soft and uneven terrain and year-round exposure to adverse weather. The vehicle must therefore provide dependable off-road mobility, occupant protection, towing and load-carrying capability, and a fully enclosed climate-controlled cab.

This specification is intentionally expressed in brand-neutral performance and functional terms. Tenderers may offer any make or model that meets or exceeds the minimum requirements. Where a standard or particular technical reference is mentioned, it is to be read as including “or equivalent”.

2. Scope of Requirement

The successful Tenderer shall supply, prepare, commission and deliver one (1) new and unused heavy-duty 4WD Utility Terrain Vehicle (UTV), complete and ready for operational use, including all equipment and accessories required by this specification.

3. General Requirements

The vehicle and all supplied equipment shall be new, current production, fit for purpose and suitable for professional/heavy-duty use. Demonstrator, pre-owned or previously registered vehicles will not be accepted unless expressly permitted in the RFT.

All equipment shall comply with applicable Irish and European Union legislation, product safety requirements and relevant standards in force at the date of delivery. The Tenderer shall identify the applicable approvals, conformity documentation and homologation status in its tender.

The vehicle shall be supplied fully assembled and configured so that all accessories, electrical loads, track systems, winch equipment and cargo enclosure supplied under the contract are compatible with the vehicle and do not invalidate the manufacturer's warranty or compromise safe operation.

9. Equivalence and Brand Neutrality

This procurement does not require a particular make or brand. The specification has been developed from operational requirements and is intended to permit genuine competition between equivalent products. Any inadvertent reference to a standard, design, technology, manufacturer-specific terminology or proprietary solution shall be understood as “or equivalent”.

A Tenderer proposing an equivalent solution must provide sufficient technical evidence to demonstrate that the proposed vehicle or component meets the stated functional and performance requirement. Evidence may include manufacturer technical data, certificates, test reports, homologation documentation, drawings or other appropriate technical material.

NPWS reserves the right to seek clarification of technical evidence in accordance with the procurement rules and the terms of the RFT. A tender will not be treated as compliant merely because a product is described as “equivalent”; equivalence must be demonstrated against the relevant requirement.

Tenderers must respond to every line of the compliance schedule. A simple “Comply” response should be supported by the exact offered specification and, where practicable, a page/section reference to the manufacturer’s literature. NPWS may treat failure to demonstrate compliance with a mandatory minimum requirement as a failure to meet the specification, subject to the terms of the RFT and applicable procurement rules.

Any award criteria, weightings, minimum quality thresholds and price evaluation methodology should be set out separately in the Instructions to Tenderers / RFT. The technical specification should not be read as establishing award weightings unless expressly stated.

14. Procurement Drafting Note

Regulation 42 of the European Union (Award of Public Authority Contracts) Regulations 2016 provides that technical specifications should afford equal access and should not create unjustified obstacles to competition. It permits specifications to be formulated in performance or functional terms and generally restricts references to specific makes, sources, trade marks or types unless justified; where technical standards are referenced, “or equivalent” should accompany them. The final procurement documents should be reviewed by the Contracting Authority to ensure that every minimum requirement is objectively necessary and proportionate to the operational need.

This document is a technical drafting aid and should be incorporated into the Contracting Authority’s approved RFT/contract documentation and governance process before publication.
