Query 1

We can see that Criteria B1C is a scored criterion, but can you please explain how this is scored. e.g. does more competencies in a lot equal more marks?

Response Query 1

Criterion B1c – Mentoring Competencies is assessed based on the number and relevance of competencies selected within the Lot(s) for which an applicant is applying

Applicants who can demonstrate a broader range of relevant competencies within a Lot may achieve a higher score than those with fewer competencies.

The maximum score available under Criterion B1c is 500 marks.
