Title: Single Party Framework Agreement for the Design and Development of a new Website for the Irish Institute of Public Administration
Description: The IPA has recently completed a restructuring process, including the incorporation of two established training brands from its parent department into its extensive range of services. As part of its current corporate strategy, the IPA plans to significantly expand its services further. The IPA website is thus no longer fit for purpose. The IPA aims to create a reliable and engaging online platform that supports its mission of fostering professional development and collaboration among practitioners worldwide. The IPA are seeking a secure, visually striking, user-centric website that reflects the IPA's position as an authority in higher education and training and will serve as a central hub for members/students. This website will be available 24/7 and be fully responsive and optimised for different search engines and devices. The website will provide, among other things: (i) a superb user experience, (ii) a significant increase in student enrolments and revenue, and (iii) advanced and efficient website management and administration capacities, including in digital marketing. The full list of requirements is contained within the procurement documents. All responses must be submitted in a ZIP FILE format.
